YOU'VE GOT A POCKETFUL OF TROUBLES, PAL.

It was midnight, a monster's favorite time of day. The base of Monster Mountain volcano was packed with throngs of creatures, phantoms and ghouls of every description. Yes, it was time again for the convention of history's greatest monsters, held once every 100 years. (They don't meet any more frequently because the good monsters and bad monsters aren't exactly on snarling terms.) The attendees were taking a soda pop break, waiting for the "How to Improve Your Scare Tactics" workshop to begin. Little did they realize that their convention was about to turn into a real blowout.

Without warning, the ground began to shake. The earth began to split. Then the volcano's mouth exploded into a cloud of fire, ash and rocks that blotted out the moonlight, casting the conventioners into total darkness. We're talking major eruption. This one made Mount St. Helens look like a five cent firecracker. When the smoke cleared, the monsters found themselves right smack in the middle of downtown Los Angeles. Not only that, but they had been transformed into tiny terrors of pocketable proportions. (Why? Who knows, that's how things happen in the mysterious realm of monsterdom.)

A group of good monsters, led by The Vampire and The Monster, scrambled for safety amidst the humongous human hazards swirling about them. They found sanctuary in the pocket of a leather jacket, which was promptly stuffed into a gym bag by its owner Jack, the teenage "Captain of Cool." Jack grabbed his bag, jumped on his motorcycle and took home, only to discover the stubby stowaways in his coat. He agreed to let the monsters stay, and it wasn't long before they became friends. But no one knew what became of the bad monsters.

Nintendo ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM

Until one night when The Vampire and The Monster were watching Monster Movie Mania Week on their Konami 27-inch Superlux color television with remote control. Suddenly, right after a commercial for Monster Chips the TV screen went haywire and there appeared the wicked Warlock, chief trouble maker and head bad monster honcho. "I'm going to release my monsters who will make mincemeat out of you and your goody-two-shoes friends," he cackled. "Well, you better do something about this, or the good ghouls will live forever under the bad ghouls rule. You can do it. After all, are you a monster or a mouse? (Actually, you're a mouse-sized monster.)"

HOW TO PLAY - OR - WINNING THIS GAME WILL BE NO SMALL FEAT.

Your mission is clear: take on the role of The Vampire or The Monster, fight your way past the world's meanest little monsters and destroy Warlock. To make things interesting, each bad monster has its own special way of inflicting pain. (If you don't think you can handle it alone, get a friend to join you and play in the 2 Player Mode.)

Your adventure begins in Jack's room and takes you through a total of six giant levels crammed with big time obstacles. At the end of each level awaits a boss monster ready to tear your tiny body into even tinier bits. Along the way you'll find "oversized" objects like keys and bolts which you can pick up and hurl at oncoming enemies.

Nintendo ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM

You'll start out with three monster lives. Keep an eye on your life gauge; you'll lose a life when it drains empty. However, picking up a Heart-In-A-Jar will give you a power boost, so grab as many as you can. You'll get points for every monster you mash. You can also earn extra lives by running up your score: one additional life for the first 500 points, then another for every 2000 points. You'll be rewarded with bonus points when (if!) you complete a stage. Also remember that there's a special Monster Survival Mechanism built into the 2 Player Mode. When one monster is out of lives, he can take one from his partner by pressing the A BUTTON (as long as his partner has a life to spare!)

NOTE: When your monster runs out of lives, the Continue Mode will give you the option of restarting at the beginning of the stage you were last in. But you can only do that three times.

ON YOUR MARK, GET SET, GHOUL!

Insert the game into your NES™ and turn it on. Wait for the Title screen to appear. Press the SELECT BUTTON to get to the Player Select screen. Use the CONTROL PAD to pick 1 or 2 Player Mode, then press the START BUTTON to lock in your choice. Now you decide which monster you want to be. Make your selection with the SELECT BUTTON and press the START BUTTON twice to begin the game.

MONSTERS MOVE IN MYSTERIOUS WAYS

WHAT'S WHAT - THE GAME SCREEN

THE WARLOCK STAGES A SIX STAGE ATTACK

Stage 1

Monsters In My House

Make your way from Jack's room, downstairs, and through the living room. (Hopefully Jack's mom hasn't called the exterminator.)

Stage 2

Big Trouble In The Kitchen

What's cookin' is your goose if you don't make it up the chairs, across the counter tops, over the stove and into the freezer.

Stage 3

Crisis From Underground

Dodge the golf balls, drop down the manhole and sludge your way through the sewer.

Stage 4

Towering Catastrophe

Danger is under heavy duty construction here as you climb the steel girders, and ride the elevator and crane.

Stage 5

Oriental Illusion

To reach the oriental palace you must first survive a bamboo garden and barbed wire fence. Either of which could turn you into chop suey.

Stage 6

Last Battle At Monster Mountain

If you actually make it here you'll encounter all the boss monsters previously defeated. Beat them all again and you'll have to fight Wario in the final battle.

THE GOOD GHOULS

The Monster

Packs a powerful punch for such a little guy.

The Vampire

This toothy terror blasts enemies with an energy wave from his fangs. (But he'll never get close enough to put the bite on them.)

THE BAD GHOULS

Spring Heeled Jack

Bounces around while throwing sharp knives at you.

Bigfoot

You'll instantly go into a deep freeze if his blasts of cold breath touch you.

Kraken

Keep all arms (except from this creature's tentacles).

Gremlin

Don't get beamed by the back he throws.

Medusa

She'll give you a light, slight. A paralyzing beam of light, in fact.

Warlock

Uses his magic to fire magic lightning bolts. Shooting, isn't it?
